Womxn's Empowerment in the Dominican Republic
December 27, 2022 - Jan14, 2023

Instructor:

Prof. Motiér Haskins, School of Social Work
(motier-haskins@uiowa.edu)

Course Outline

1. Why Travel to the Dominican Republic

Travel broadens the mind and expands the self. Imagine a study abroad pilgrimage to the beautiful Island of Hispaniola, The Island Nation of the Dominican Republic. During this magnificent trek in a land with great dichotomy, students will be able to take a life changing cultural plunge. The DR is known for its cultural wealth and heritage. This course will be based in the Capitol city of Santo Domingo and surrounding cities of the Dominican Republic. Students will learn via classes, webinars and interactions with service providers from several NGO's (non-governmental organizations) who work towards the empowerment of womxn and who focus on the elimination of gender-related violence, discrimination and other hidden inequalities.

This course will be a combination experience. Week one will be a Virtual experience that will offer the chance to engage in substantive, empowering tasks followed by two Weeks "Boots on the ground" travel to the island nation of the Dominican Republic where students will gain international experience by physically traveling to the DR.

This course will build on years of experience in the Dominican Republic and engage our extensive network of partners to provide opportunities with local organizations in fields such as public health, social change, LGBTQ+ rights, sustainable human rights, and women's empowerment. This course will help students gain experience in remote work, develop an international professional network, and build intercultural skills.

Mark Twain once wrote "Travel is fatal to prejudice, bigotry, and narrow-mindedness, and many of our people need it sorely on these accounts. Broad, wholesome, charitable views of men and things cannot be acquired by vegetating in one little corner of the earth all one's lifetime."

Someone should have told Mark that Womxn should travel as well ☺

2. Instructor

Motiér Haskins is an Instructional Track Professor at the University of Iowa, School of Social Work. He received his degree in Social Work from Syracuse University in New York. He teaches courses on Discrimination Oppression and Diversity, Social Justice and Social Welfare, Theories of Organization and Community Practice, Individual Families and Groups, Human Behavior and the Social Environment and Integrated Theory and Practice. He is the former Coordinator of the Critical Cultural Competence Certificate Program and the former Director of the BASW Program. Professor Mo was born in Harlem,

New York and has traveled and studied in (Mexico, India, Europe, South America, Africa, Haiti, and The Middle East). Professor Mo is an experienced faculty director who has led six cultural excursion trips to India and four trips to the Dominican Republic.

3. The Course

“We believe that womxn are key actors in improving household livelihoods and industry competitiveness, and that their active economic participation enables societies to grow and achieve results across economic and social indicators. We develop realistic and locally relevant gender-inclusion strategies, support womxn-owned and womxn-operated businesses and the entrepreneurial ecosystem in which they operate, and build the skills and self-confidence of adolescent girls and young womxn to empower them to make important decisions about their economic and social well-being”

This three-credit elective course is designed to prepare students to understand and address the complex issues associated with womxn’s empowerment, dealing with cross-culture issues, and working with marginalized and at-risk young womxn. Students will engage with non-profit organizations, visit local government offices, and explore the geographic and sociocultural context. Students will experience and be exposed to the most respected organizations serving Womxn throughout the Dominican Republic.

Classes will consist of mini-lectures, podcast, videos, webinars, class discussions and a variety of individual and group hands-on activities throughout the experience. Since learning is proven to best occur in a collaborative learning environment, there will be reduced lecture time and increased use of team-based learning pedagogy and other experiential models. For this method to be successful, however, it is essential that you, as a student, take the responsibility for reading the materials before class and complete the assignments as required. You are required to come to class prepared for critical, cooperative, and collegial discussions and activities. Your opinions and thinking are more valid when informed by the readings and out of class work. For several activities, you will be working in small groups, which will be formed by the second week. Your responsibility is not only to learn, but also to contribute to your assigned group and overall class learning. For this reason, part of the engagement and participation grade will be assigned by other students in your group.

Students will learn directly from several organizations, and experts in the field of Womxn’s Empowerment in the DR. Each employing a diverse variety of techniques to address gender equality and equity, by means of providing a diverse range of curriculums, tools and services on various topics such as anti-violence, the economics of female wellbeing and addressing intersecting issues of poverty, healthcare for the poor, illiteracy, discrimination, and oppression.

4. Course Objectives and Goals:

The course aims to enhance student’s abilities to better understand, analyze and apply practical work.

- Key theories and concepts of gender, oppression, empowerment, intersectionality’s, and masculinities.
- Underlying assumptions, changing perceptions and new approaches for gender equity and Womxn’s empowerment in development in the Dominican Republic.
- The role of Feminist movements in development practices across selected historical and geographical contexts.

5. Our Host Organizations

1) ENTRENA (<https://entrenadr.com/en/>)

Entrena- is a renowned social entrepreneurship firm in the Dominican Republic specializing in social development, sustainability, education and training since 1982. With a portfolio of high-profile clients from governments, private sector, NGOs and international organizations, Entrena has implemented projects in eight countries in the Latin America and Caribbean region.

*Specialized projects may be negotiated with Entrena. (Instructors approval required)

2) Caminante (<https://bit.ly/2PmAsfN>)

A NGO in the Dominican Republic dedicated to protecting and supporting vulnerable children, youth, and families. Caminante is an educational project that works with children that are living and working in the street. Children that have been victims of abuse or sexual exploitation and works with the communities of Boca Chica and San Andres to raise awareness and prevent further cases of abuse.

3) USAID Dominican Republic YOUNG PEOPLE LEADING THE PROMOTION OF WOMEN'S RIGHTS

Alerta Joven project, has focused on the protection of at-risk youth (particularly at-risk females) for them to take an active leadership role in decision- making and promote the rights of the LGBTI community. This includes the implementation of technical courses, in which 20 young people from the LGBTI community have participated, and 30% of the participants have been placed in work internships, allowing them to improve their living conditions and obtain employment.

4) Empowering Womxn in Los Alcarrazos, Santo Domingo <https://bit.ly/36IM4cT>

This initiative will increase the income of women participants and their families, producing a positive impact on local economy and giving them the power of improving their living conditions. Their efforts can lead them to new roles as major contributors to family income and ultimately transform their position and status within the household and community at large. Decent work is fundamental for the development of personality, for social integration and for the well-being of families.

Additional NGO's to be announced.

A collaborative learning approach will be used. That is, a philosophy to learning not just a classroom technique. The students will come together as a single group. This approach suggests a way of dealing with people which respects and highlights individual group members' abilities and contributions. There will be a sharing of authority and acceptance of responsibility among group members for the group's actions. The underlying premise of this collaborative learning is based upon consensus building through cooperation by group members, in contrast to competition in which individuals best other group members.

8. Student Conduct

- No Alcohol or illicit drug consumption allowed!!!!
- Violation of this policy will result in the immediate dismissal from the program. (TBD)

This course will foster an environment of mutual respect for all program participants. It is incumbent upon each student to work through disagreements with peers. If a student is struggling in the group, they are urged to approach The Faculty Director (Prof Mo) to assist in resolving disagreements or processing various dynamics.

Research

***I would like to use materials for this course in my research. I will only do so with your explicit consent and whether you decide to allow me to use your materials, your grade will NOT be affected.

Required Reading

- “In the Time of the Butterflies” (Julia Alvarez) Algonquin Books, 2010. Available from eBay or Amazon.com.
- Various articles and readings located on ICON

10. Assignments

The description of activities provided below are a brief explanation of what is required for this course. Detailed assignment instructions along with specific requirements and grading criteria will be provided during the trip.

Engagement and participation in class activities. You will be graded on your attendance (mandatory), preparation for in-class activities, participation in class discussion, and group activities.

Class presentations/applications. You will prepare and conduct a 5-minute presentation and other activities based on selected readings with the purpose of promoting a better understanding and reflection on the class material. Some of these will be undertaken individually while some in groups. The number will vary depending on final class size.

5-minute Article/Podcast/Video presentations are to provide 2 key ideas and 1 main weakness of a pre-assigned Article/Podcast/Video. The presentation will be timed, and the 5-minute strictly enforced. This will allow students to develop the ability to synthesize effectively and make a concise argument.

Purpose: This assignment invites you to read an article, view a documentary or listen to a podcast, that relates to our course topics or themes. The purpose of this assignment is to give you the opportunity to learn more about a particular topic, issue and critically reflect on the information and overall message. This activity is worth (35 points)

Assignment Guidelines:

- During your presentation you will:
- Follow the CEM questions to guide you:
  - What do I feel? What emotional and/or physical reactions came up?
  - What do I think or believe? What thoughts came up? How does this relate to my beliefs, experiences, social norms, and cultural influences?
  - What do I know? What is the perspective or message of this source? Who do you think was the intended audience? What did the author/facilitator/creator want people to learn or do? What is the impact of their message on me, other people, and communities? How were systemically marginalized communities discussed or represented? What key information did you find most important from this experience? What additional questions came up?
  - What do I do? How could this shape your attitudes, decisions, and/or actions? How does this relate to your professional or academic growth in your major? How does this relate to your civic engagement (your commitment and responsibility to active participation in the communities where you live and work)?

11. Course Grades

Grades for the course will be based on the following elements:

- 40% Attendance & Active engagement and discussion with fellow students, the instructor, our hosts, and the sponsoring organizations.
- 25% 500-word paper on the most important part of your experience- due (TBD).
- 35% Group Presentations (TBD).

12. Grading Policies/Expectations

1. Due Dates & Late Assignments: All written assignments are to be submitted on ICON. Unless otherwise noted in the assignment descriptions, late assignments will result in 10% reduction in the grade for each day the assignment is late unless an extension has been negotiated with the instructor. Please contact the instructor if you have concerns or challenges in turning in assignments by the assigned due date.

2. Grading: The instructor reserves a one-week period for grading and returning assignments.

*Active reading means that you make notes on the major points, generate questions as well as points of interest, and note inconsistencies that you find. As you read, ask yourself questions to be sure that you have comprehended the material.

Questions such as:

What does this material mean to me?

How will I use what I have read to inform my understanding?

What questions do I have about the material?

- *Active learning means that you will take notice of the connections between other readings, course materials, and the real world. As a class member, it is expected that you will make meaning of the course material for yourself and not solely wait for the instructor or your classmates to do it for you.
- *Active participation means that you bring insight and will make contributions to the class discussion. All class members bear the responsibility of active participation. Every class meeting should result in a fluid, active, open, reflective, and engaging discussion.

Grading Criteria:

- Completeness of response: Adequately responded to all the prompts.
- Critical thinking: Demonstrated awareness of key points, connection to course themes, and consistent application of CEM model.
- Is able to express and adapt ideas and messages based on others' perspectives.
- Writing mechanics: Paper is well-organized and is free from grammatical or typographical errors that might distract a reader from following the student's work.
